of the Faculty, and by them in a body for his irregularity, has sufficiently proved himself to be incorrigible. It is now therefore advised by the Faculty to dismiss said Pursall from this University, and he is required to withdraw forthwith.

On the 22d of February 1811 a public dinner was given by the students of college. On that occasion many of them became intoxicated, and much quarreling and improper conduct ensued. Some prompted by passion in the delirium of intemperance, had recourse to weapons of the most deadly violence, such as dirks and pistols. Information of these things being communicated to the Faculty, it was deemed necessary by them, to have a meeting, that the nature and consequences of such proceedings might be investigated, and such measures adopted as the interest of the institution might demand. A meeting was consequently called by the President on this the 26th of February; there being present—
