about Mr. Herridge before the Faculty, was required to send a written apology to-morrow, in pain of being dismissed, if he should fail to comply with this injunction.

Perhaps it will not be amiss to repeat here the word of that letter:

"O God! I have been told by Prof. Mitchell, that if I do not retract what I said yesterday, I shall be dismissed.

I therefore retract."

D. B. November 13th 1855

"Mr. Whitaker was reprimanded for impertinence to his instructor in the same department (French). After he retired, it was moved, in consideration of his repeated offences of this kind, that he be dismissed. This motion was ordered to lie upon the table, and Prof. Mitchell was directed to inform him that it would be taken up and carried, if he should appear before the Faculty again upon a similar occasion."

B. C. Feb. 15th 1856.

"Mr. Whitaker of the soph. class appeared and was admonished for misconduct at recitation. A motion was made to dismiss him on consideration of his repeated offences of this description. It was ordered that this motion should be laid upon the table and that he be informed of the fact as a warning against further transgressions.

B. C. Aug. 14th 1856.

"Whitaker of the junior class appeared before the Faculty, reported by Mr. Herridge, to answer for impertinence to him at recitation. A motion was made to dismiss him which was over by the casting vote of the President."
