whether they ever were intended to be introduced to such an extent, it is for you, gentlemen, to determine.

They learn to quote one or two entries.

July 16th 1853.

July 15th 1854, P. 247. The following candidates are missed. Sophors.

A simple appeal to reason will soon convince anyone that a policy which subjects the admittance into College of a young man, deemed and proved to be deficient in Greek, Latin, and Mathematics, to the three most important departments in the Institution, cannot well endure to a very high standard of scholarships.

3 “I am free to assert that idleness and intolerable scholarship are never a cause of suspension or dismissal.”

There is not a single case on the Faculty journals of suspension or dismissal for such causes, and indeed, it would create no little stir but in the Faculty and College, if a student was summoned of necessity to answer the charge of mere knowing or studying his lessons. I cannot recollect a single instance.

4 “I have heard these complaints echoed and repeated by almost all the members of the Faculty, and in regard to the same individuals.”

In the class of 1852-4 Sloor, Dennis, Jacobs & Co.
In the class of 1855-6 Russell, Robinson & Co.