I am certain I am related to Dr. McNeill's family. I was told some years ago and I think you were my informant. The course I will not be certain about that. His wife who came together, she also was your grandmother. Encourage to reach your destination faster to come over and I think perhaps you may see the links which connect to us. It is a matter of little consequence to me except that I would like to be confirmed of the fact. I know almost every lady is able to tell who my dear mother turned desire to recover. I want that you know the knowledge. Have of them letter.

(Gratitude) Governor Swain tells me that he has seen it stated, that Capt. Robert Gillies did survive the Revolution but only a very short period. The absent remember where or by whom or under what circumstances he was informed of the fact. Suppose you may safely rely upon this, for if there is any man in the state of North Carolina who is conversant with its history Dr. B. Swain is. This man - I went to see governor a few days ago and the very kindly showed me a great many rare and valuable manuscripts, curiosities etc. etc. I saw the original portraits of Geo. III and his queen, which formerly hung up in the sitting room of Mrs. Elizabeth Steele with The writing plainly eligible on the former. "The George hide the face and mourn!" These pictures are in a tolerably fair state of preservation, but unless something is done to keep them in this state, they were after a few years be ruined among the things that went. I saw also an engraving (freedom that's what you call it) done up in Paris, representing mad. Steele. Handling their bronze two purses of gold. I mean to visit governor Swain again to examine more minutely his rare and choice collection.
