ERECTED AT CHAPEL TO BE

Monument to the University Boys Who Dropped Their Books in the Sixties to Take Up Arms at The Call of Their States

This picture represents the monument to be erected on the campus at Chaper Hill, not only in memory of the "boys" who left the University from 1861 to 1865 for the war, but also those who attended the University and atterwards became Confederate soldiers.

There were more than 1,000 University men in the struggle between the States, enlisting from various States of the South. At least 40 per cent of the students entered the service, which is a record not equaled by any other institution.

The monument has been designed by the Canadian sculptor, John Wilson, and will be very beautiful.

Books are falling from the youth's arms, as in evident agitation, he listens to her appeal. The heroic figure surmounting the shaft represents the call answered—that of a soldier boy, the soft felt hat pushed back from his noble brow, enthusiasm in every line of his young face.

On the reverse side will be another bronze tablet, reciting the number of University students who from first to last enlisted in the cause—from the stances; sincers, who from first to last onlisted in the cause—from the highest officer to the lowest private.

Standing on the campus for all time, it will be an object-lesson to all future generations, and will impress upon them their obligations to respond to the call of duty. This record should ever be before the eyes of the present-day students. ent-day students.

Tablets te been erected in Memorial Hall in memory of those who and all of those who enlisted are surely worthy of a monuhave lost their lives. ment

This monument is to be erected under the auspices of the North Carolina Division of Daughfers of the Confederacy, who hepe to have it unveiled during next Commencement, it being the fiftieth anniversary of the begin of the war. But is order to accomplish this purpose it will be necessary to complete the fund of $7,500, which represents its cost. Each chapter is complete the rand of $7.500, which represents its cost. Each chapter is strated to send at once its contribution to the Suite treasurer, Mrs. Robert Kornegay, Goldsborg, N. C.; and each chapter president is asked to appoint an active chapter committee to solicit contributions, not only from University alumni, but from all persons who are willing to honor in this manner the memory of the University's Confederate solitors with substantial contributions. It is desired that the names of contributors be given in every instance, so that, they may be recorded at the University and also in our University purphers of the Confederace books.
