Sunday 27th. Tuesday was the 22nd. The birthday of Washington. The day was celebrated by the delivery of a speech by Morrissey. The procession formed in front of the S.B. and marched round by BaldWIN's monument to the Chapel. Meares was Marshall of the day.
The amount of liquor drunk by the Students was tremendous.
More than 90 of college were intoxicated. Pink & I went over to the East & were gloriously tight before breakfast. We kept the thing hot throughout the day. Nadal had an excellent dinner. Parson Green dined with us for the purpose of preser-vring order & preventing us from drinking too much wine.
A member of the Faculty dined at each of the boarding houses for the same purpose. In the evening Stike was passing through the Campus & some drunken fellow cursed them from Mr. Nair's window. He came up & found the room full of drunken Students, while the sugar was scattered about & the floor was drenched with the brandy which had been spilled. He sat down & gave them a long talk & went away, after giving them to understand that he would report none of them. On Thursday however, Dick, Mr. Nair Williamson, were called before the Faculties, at Stike's instigation, & dismissed for three weeks. The two folks were dismissed finally. Moral Jessie Irvine was sent off the next day for refusing to go up to Mr. Nether's table, to reside.
On Friday Yance & Poole set out on foot, for Movings 8 miles from the Hill on the Raleigh road, with the intention of spending their three weeks there. About a dozen of us
