by a decline of sense, and having no high state to degrade from have ever proceeded in the dust of ignorance, ignorance and vice. As the civil rights of the people and the republic of a constitution, they have none but their lives, their fortunes and their property are all dependent on the will of a capricious tyrant. Such is the condition of these unfortunate people sunk into the deep depths of superstition, ignorance, misery and vice.
But say you they have not civil and religious liberty like we have, and you must not expect as much from them. I would ask why have they not had it. They had the same enlightenment that we had. We received all from them and ours is only an improvement made upon the original stock and why have they not done likewise? It is surely of that easy inactive laxious race. They want the energy, the activity of the Western races. They have not the ever active blood that courses the Anglo-Saxon veins, "Whose prop in upward whatever he goes, Mense motto 'hard labor whatever he does."
"Ev. give civic and religious liberty and you give everything. knowledge and science, heroism
