Do to a letter from the Mr. Delavan, I really knew not whether to look on man in the could teach the Latin & Greek language and make this share of the English cleric round I suppose under the purpose, but I have yet to learn where he is to be found.
I see no impropriety in advertising such an accuracy, and it appears to me the most likely means of seeing well supplied at least if he is of some choice.

As to the walls of the chapel, I keep you to direct what you think is best.
I am clearly of opinion they shou-d be raised if necessary, and it seems by Mr. Stephens's letter that it is impractical both to its appearance and convencence. I will therefore hereby con-
