A letter of the 18th instant, informing me of the present difficult and disordered state of our University, was duly received, and that an answer thereunto, and should have been written to you yesterday, accompanied by those of the honored who reside in that place; but for the annual letter of clergy, Deans, Bishops and others... from the enclosed report of those Gentlemen, we are led to believe that the shameful necessity which was about to bring forth the treasurer, has been done away with the date of your letter and no longer exists.

Board as I am as a Director and additionally as President of the College, to watch over the interests and prosperity of the University, these feel both pains and pleasure in the very favorable report which comes from time to time, of the growing and flourishing state of that Institution, and of the decay in costly demerit and instructive habit of the students; these judge them of my disappointment, anguish and attachment, on receiving your letter above mentioned. That native American, teaching by way of sound principles, the advantage of education and maintaining for the public and respectable in the University, should be known for their standing in society, and if look to any person formerly the duty, they made to themselves into others, so to continue in enforcing the education of their students.