if I am not mistaken the very hub of society is to be found there. I mean among the instructors and upper ladies. I have understood, that the society of the place is not very good, though. Common Youth's and several other families of respectability reside there.

You do not seem to be determined as to my graduating, ask me what I would rather do really that is rather a hard question to answer, I desire to be a graduate very much but I don't like the idea of staying here so long for many reasons which I will endeavor to show you, not that I desire to return to Williamson for the more I stay away from the place the life inclined I am to go back. But for I am forced to, if the family were away from here I should not return so often, as it were in my power to persuade you to have I should certainly do it if you knew my reason for so talking but in the vacation but to return to my subject, this place is filled up mostly by those of the lower classes, in fact there are very few decent families in the place and I understand the faculty don't encourage decent persons to come here to reside at all, this the poor student is destined to grope his way along through the drudgeries of a session without the encouragement of the smiles of the ladies, the deoc idols of his heart! you know from experience that they tend to soothe the cares and troubles of those who are in distress or to serve them on to greater accomplishments and I think the faculty are disposed to be tyrannical - they wish to impose duties on the student that he cannot without considerable exertion, accomplish, and give him scarcely no respite whatever. An account of these things there is an almost continual warfare kept up between the faculty and students now for instance, the other night, seems went to some fellow's room.
