call him to account for absence or delay in the presence of this day, and shall be the judge of his course; and if a good reason be not shown for his delinquency, he may be indicted at any time before the Faculty to answer for it.

"If any student shall be habitually idirical or inattentive to bustices, or shall be absent from prayers or recitation or public worship, or any other time when it shall be his duty to attend, he shall be punished according to the aggravation of his offence.

"Nothing indecent, profane or immoral shall at any time be delivered in the public stage, under penalty of such censure as the Faculty or Trustees shall judge proper.

"Every student, whether in the College or in the village, shall attend public prayers morning and evening in the Chapel, and during the worship, shall remain from all work, conducting himself with such decorum and respect as is suited to these solemn services. On Sunday it shall be the duty of every student to be present at the reading or delivery of a sermon in the Chapel, at the time appointed by the Faculty for that purpose.

"Unbecoming, talking or indecent behavior of any kind shall be manifested on such occasions:

"If any student shall abuse any instruction or moral or religious by the Professor and Tutors, or the Faculty and Faculty, shall appear on Sunday. And if any student abuse himself, or evade such instructions or conduct himself indecently while attending them, he shall be punished by his Professor, or by the Faculty, according to the nature of his offence, due regard being paid in this as well as in all other cases to the rules hereafter prescribed, pointing out the several degrees or kinds of punishment which the Faculty shall be at liberty to inflict.

"At all times the Students shall conduct and refer to themselves respectfully towards the Faculty, and towards every member of it,

"No insult shall be offered by a Student or by any number of students to the people of the village, or of the county around the University, or of any other place.

"No Student, who does not live in the village, shall go into it on any account in study hours without leave from the President or some member of the Faculty.

"A Student shall not make horse races, nor at the same time shall they have cock or hounds of any kind, or for any purpose.

"No Student shall make, play at cards or Bet, or Bet at any game, without being punished by the Faculty according to the aggravation