show them where they would be secured at their own significance. The danger is that by entangled elections they will produce a state of things which will lead to final abdication of the different sections. I have no other view to have given in the way to-morrow might.

Good by my good bless for my love.

D. S. Hedrick